

The Country Line–Dance

Easy start · Either · Kid can lead · Ages 5–10 · 20 min

Brought to you by Averi — “Count the beat. Then let the beat carry you.”

Learn a six-step sequence, then teach it to a beginner and find out how patient you can be.

WHAT YOU NEED

- Space to move
- One song with a strong steady beat

BEFORE YOU START

Give every dancer an arm's length of space in every direction.

How to make it

- 1 Stand in a line, everybody facing the same way.
- 2 Learn the first three steps: right, together, right. Say it out loud as you do it.
- 3 Add three more: left, together, left. Now you have six.
- 4 Add a quarter turn at the end so the line faces a new wall each time through.
- 5 Run the whole sequence four times, once for each wall, until you finish where you started.
- 6 Bring in somebody who has never done it and teach them the first three steps only.

TALK ABOUT IT

When you were teaching, what did you do to help when your learner got stuck?

TRY THIS TOO

Invent a new ending step as a group, and add it once everyone has the first six.

DID YOU KNOW? · SOUND & RHYTHM

A sequence is a set of steps in a fixed order. Change the order and it becomes a different dance. That is what makes a sequence teachable: once you name the steps and fix the order, anybody can learn it, and everybody ends up in the same place.
